The biggest problems

- 1 Your website isn't built for phones
- 2 Only 23 Google reviews
- 3 3 things holding you back on Google

YOUR WEBSITE

We checked on October 6, 2026

Works on phones

HIGH Checked live

Your site isn't set up for phones, so it shows up tiny and hard to use on a small screen, where most people look up local repair shops.

Fix: Switch to a mobile-friendly theme or template. Your text and photos can usually move over as they are.

Secure (https)

MEDIUM Checked live

Browsers mark your site "Not secure" because it doesn't use https, which makes some visitors leave.

Fix: Ask your web host to turn on the free security certificate (SSL) most hosts include, and send every visitor to the https version of your site.

Up to date

MEDIUM Checked live

Your site's footer says © 2016, so it can look out of date to new customers.

Fix: Change it to © 2026, or set it to update itself, and check that your hours, prices and photos are current.

Accessibility

LOW Checked live

6 of the 8 images on your home page have no description (alt text), so screen readers and Google Images skip them.

Fix: Add a short description to each image in your site builder's image settings.

GETTING FOUND ON GOOGLE

Page title

MEDIUM Checked live

Your page title is just "Home", so Google has little to show when people search for a shop in Van Nuys.

Fix: Use something like "Copperline Auto Care | Auto Repair in Van Nuys". Whoever built your site can change it in minutes.

Description

MEDIUM Checked live

There's no description for Google to show under your name, so it picks random text from the page.

Fix: Add one of about 150 characters, like "Auto repair in Van Nuys. Call (818) 555-0100 or stop by 14098 Walnut Ave."

Business details

LOW Checked live

Your site doesn't spell out your business details in the code Google reads (structured data), which Google uses to show your hours, location and reviews.

Fix: Add "LocalBusiness" structured data with your name, address, phone and hours. A web designer can add it in under an hour.

Google reviews

HIGH Google Maps

23 Google reviews, rated 4.1. The repair shops that show up first nearby usually have far more.

Fix: Ask every customer before they leave, then text your review link the same day while the visit is fresh. A few a week adds up fast.

✓ On maps with your phone

✓ Visible to Google

✓ Mentions Van Nuys

✓ Same phone as listing

TURNING VISITORS INTO CUSTOMERS

Online booking

MEDIUM Checked live

We couldn't find a way to book or request an appointment on your site, so people who find you after hours can only call back later, and many won't.

Fix: Add a "Request an appointment" button (a simple form is enough), and put the same link on your Google listing.

Tap to call

LOW Checked live

Your phone number isn't a tap-to-call button, the quickest way for someone on a phone to reach you.

Fix: Turn the number into a phone link (tel:+18185550100): in most site builders, select it, add a link and choose "Phone".

WHAT WE'D SET UP FOR COPPERLINE AUTO CARE

Picked from what we found above, most useful first.

1 A phone-first website

One fast page with your services, hours, reviews and a book-or-call button, matched to your Google listing. We can rebuild it from the site you have now.

2 Get found on Google

The 3 Google fixes above, done for you, so you show up when people search for a shop in Van Nuys.

3 Missed-call text-back

When you can't pick up, the caller gets a text within seconds with a way to book, so they don't try the next shop.

More we could build: Review requests, Online booking + reminders, Rebooking nudges and Estimates & quotes.

How we checked: on October 6, 2026 we opened copperlineautocare.test and read your public map listing and Google reviews. This first look is automated, so tell us if anything here is off. It doesn't cover your hours and phone number on Apple Maps, Yelp and other directories, your photos, or where you show up on the map around you; a full audit does.
